An Evening Echo.
Remember to comport thyself in life as at a banquet; if a plate is offered thee, extend thy hand and take it moderately; if it be withdrawn, do not detain it; if it come not to thy side, make not thy desire loudly known, but wait patiently till it be offered thee; use the same moderation toward thy wife and thy children, toward honor and riches.
—EPICURE.

Some one writing in the Exponent calls the writer of an anti-woman suffrage article in the Telegram a "sorehead." As the similarity of style of writing is so striking, the Telegram takes it that he has properly described himself as he ought to know himself better than anyone else does.

Announcement that lake shipments of coal are to begin about March 20 is received with gratification. The promise of the railroads to furnish all the car service needed is a pleasing assurance. These will cause the valley here to be very busy all spring and summer. It is hoped that the coal miners in this region will not permit themselves to be led into any movement that would lose them this great opportunity. Full time and good wages should be their motto this spring and summer and strict observance of the motto will profit them greatly.

The agricultural department of the federal government will not suffer materially by the retirement of James Wilson, who served sixteen years and became virtually father of the department. One has great difficulty in imagining the wonderful growth and development of that department of government under the administration of Mr. Wilson. The new administration finds in this instance as well as others that experience is an essential, and while there is a new and green head of the department, the administration has selected Beverly T. Galloway as assistant secretary for the reason that he has served in the department through several administrations and knows the business. New officials in the department will get the benefit of his experience and the department will remain strong and vigorous.

Justifies Mr. Taft.
Passing events continue to demonstrate that President Taft was not such a blockhead as Democratic campaign orators have tried to paint him.

The latest evidence of the kind is President Wilson's announcement of what the foreign policies of his administration are to be. It is a virtual reaffirmation of the Taft policies and serves notice upon the turbulent elements of the Latin American countries that the United States will insist upon law, order and constitutional government in the southern republics. In the last campaign it was said to be almost a crime for Taft or for anybody else to stick closely to constitutional government; but times and conditions change, you know, and there is a difference between seeing the pie and eating it.

It should be hoped that there will be more regard for constitutional government during the present administration than there was displayed by its advocates during the last campaign.

Business Getting Scared.
For the welfare of the country, it is sincerely hoped that Democratic tariff tinkering soon to begin may be of such a kind as not to bring on a panic. If that result is attained, it will be something new in the nation's history. The country has never had confidence in the Democratic party's ability to deal with the tariff question and there is no use denying the fact that there is a fear prevalent now. Of this scare the Wheeling Intelligencer says:

President Wilson has made it plain that he considers the tariff question the real work that is to come before the special session. His idea is a revision downward along lines that will produce revenue only, and not necessarily provide for incidental protection. In the past agitation of this kind has always created considerable disturbance in business and unsettled conditions generally. When the Democrats carried the election it was generally understood that it meant a revision of the tariff, probably along drastic lines approaching free trade.

In the face of all this the country maintained its composure, and business went right ahead in a manner that was apparently normal. This, however, was not an indication of the absolute confidence of the business world in Democracy and its leaders, but came from the influence of the splendid conditions which prevailed as a result of the wise policies of the Republican party, not only regarding the tariff, but along all lines of administration.

New York is attempting a display of nerve that might be mistaken for confidence, but it will not bear close inspection nor careful analysis. Too many of the New York forecasts of the near future which are really sincere efforts to appear optimistic read between the lines very much like a desperate assertion that "we are not scared one bit." The scare tremor is so apparent that the lines almost zig-zag. The country does not have absolute confidence in Democracy, and there is no use to attempt to disguise the fact.

PROBING DEATH.

PRESSMAN KILLED

Former Telegram Man's Life Crushed Out in a California Newspaper Press.

John Monschein, a former Telegram pressman, was instantly killed in a press in the printing plant of the Eureka, Calif., Herald Friday afternoon, according to a wire message received from that newspaper early today. The message gave no details of the tragedy. Mr. Monschein was employed as pressman in the Telegram plant here three years and he went to California two years ago last Christmas. His brother, Jacob Monschein, is the present Telegram pressman. He has many friends here who deeply sympathize with him in the loss of his brother and announcement of John's death is received with deepest regret by the many friends he made here. Mr. Monschein was 40 years of age. He leaves a wife.

JURY

Has Case in the Criminal Court Against O. E. Kirkpatrick Now.

A criminal court jury at press time had the case against O. E. Kirkpatrick, tried for the theft of rifle from the express office at Wilsonburg.

Thomas Jenkins was acquitted by jury of a charge of carrying a revolver in violation of law.

Cases against Albert Applebee were continued until the next term of the court.

FIGHTING

On the Border Line is Now Feared by Arizona Authorities.

(By Associated Press).
NAOCO, Ariz., Mar. 15.—Fearing for the safety of American civilians and troops on the Arizona line here, General Ojeda this morning gave orders to evacuate the town. With his 475 men he marched away to the southeast leaving his fortifications and facing an enemy twice his strength.

Nearly every Mexican family spent the night on the Arizona side. Two troops of the Fifth cavalry arrived this coming to reinforce three troops of the Ninth cavalry already here.

Sheriff Wheeler, of Tombstone, with six deputies, came later and demanded that in the name of the state of Arizona that no fighting occur on the border.
